

Who Publishes Book Reviews?

Thanks to Carol Smallwood for this list of publications that publish book reviews. Do note that the list includes a separate listing of journals that accept reprints of reviews.

Of her list, Carol said, "I made it to help my latest poetry collection. It took a lot of looking and time so please share it, if you like. Some journals take poetry, some fiction, some nonfiction, some all. There is a variety of word lengths, formats, reading times, ways to submit and related guidelines. I didn't include those accepting only a narrow geographical area or requiring snail-mail submissions. Some reviews take several months to come out after they are accepted, so reviews/review copies should be submitted ASAP."

Lamar University Press published Carol's collection of poetry Water, Earth, Air, Fire, and Picket Fences. There are several links to reviews of her book here, beside her book cover art:

Carol Smallwood reports that she has a new book coming out soon, Writing after Retirement: Tips from Successful Retired Writers.

We at Writing Texas have not examined all the listings here, but those websites we did visit looked to be helpful to writers seeking book reviews. We welcome any additions to or comments on Carol's list.

Able Muse

GENERAL CALL

For poetry and poetry translations, fiction, art & photography, non-fiction, essays, book reviews, and interviews, we invite submission for the forthcoming, regular issues of Able Muse.

WHAT

Able Muse predominantly publishes metrical poetry and poetry translation complemented by art and photography, fiction and non-fiction including essays, book reviews and interviews with a focus on metrical and formal poetry. We are looking for well-crafted poems of any length or subject that employ skillful and imaginative use of meter and rhyme, executed in a contemporary idiom, that reads as naturally as your free verse poems. All forms of formal poetry are welcome. We will also publish, occasionally, the exceptional free verse poem. For an example of what we're interested in, check the poetry of Philip Larkin, James Merrill, Elizabeth Bishop, Derek Walcott, Marilyn Hacker, Richard Wilbur, Anthony Hecht....
